Safety News 2022

We are back from a relaxing holiday break, and hope you are ready for another exciting year.

Attached is our 2022 public training calendar. We can also run any of these sessions at your workplace or online if desired. Call us if you would like to discuss your needs.

This month we farewell Ben Olih. Ben completed his Masters of Education qualification last year and is teaching in Darwin this year. We will miss him and wish him well for the future.

Top Safety Services

Can you guess what Safety Action's most popular services in 2021 were?

1. Business Safety Reviews/ Safety Audits

Not only does Safety Action perform safety audits, but we also conduct holistic business safety reviews with all levels of the business to identify both formal and informal processes and how they are performing.

2. Safety Leadership Training

Safety leadership training has continued to be one of our most popular services, albeit with a Webinar style delivery during the Covid restrictions.

3. Safety Helpline and Support Service

Many of our regular clients like to have quick ongoing access to our team for accurate safety advice when they need it. Our safety helpline retainer service provides this and aids with due diligence for the business.

4. Safety Manual and Procedures Development

We enjoy tackling the technically tougher tasks but pride ourselves on delivering simple easy to use procedures.

Mentoring Safety Professionals

In 2021 we ran an intensive one-on-one mentoring program for a new Safety Manager at one of our good clients. This was first time we ran such a program for one individual.

Three weeks of full-time training was provided with topics ranging from safety law and leadership, inspections, accident investigation, traffic management, chemicals safety, storage racking, chain of responsibility, ergonomics to on-site visits with exposure to various kinds of workplaces and the risks faced and different ways other businesses run safety.

If interested in a similar professional development program for one your up-and-coming safety specialists, give us a call on 03 8544 4300 to discuss or email us.

Employers Not to Report COVID

WorkSafe Victoria have amended the incident notification requirements. From 14 January 2022, employers and self-employed persons are no longer required to report COVID cases that attend their workplace, unless the illness is contracted at work and results in a notifiable incident outcome.

Of course, other COVID Safe precautions for workplaces remain in place.
